DUAL record players:

A long tradition:

Turntables and other components for record players have been manufactured since the early 20th century in St. Georgen in the Black Forest. This was followed by the production of complete record players with the DUAL brand achieving a worldwide reputation. DUAL became one of the largest sound reproducing companies in Germany and Europe.

In the 70's, DUAL was at the peak of its success, however, in 1982 the company filed for bankruptcy. The company was acquired by the French Thomson Group and later on taken over by the Schneider Rundfunkwerke AG.

Acquisition by Alfred Fehrenbacher:

In 1993, the entire production of the analogue record players was taken over by Alfred Fehrenbacher. The company had worked for DUAL since the 60's and was well versed in the products. As a result, DUAL record players are today still being manufactured in St. Georgen in the Black Forest.

Production today:

Every year we manufacture and market between 15,000 and 20,000 record players of different brands worldwide. We are extremely proud of our DUAL record player line. Then, as today, the brand stands for excellent quality and exceptional sound.
